2020 The Mike Russell Trucking Image Award
Is Image Important?

2019 was a banner year for trucking visibility, and as our industry continues to assert itself into the public conversation, more than ever we need positive and fair coverage. The trucking industry is gaining traction in our pursuit for more respect from the media, policymakers and the general public. However, we still see unfair one-sided soundbites, stories about killer trucks and misguided legislative and regulatory efforts that cripple our industry and put a drag on the economy. In 2020, we want more leaders wearing I Heart Trucks buttons and fewer leaders using trucks as negative political talking points.

If you believe any of those statements are true, you’re not alone. That is why it is so important to improve the way people view our essential and strong industry.

At ATA, America’s Road Team speaks to members of the media in order to see more fair and balanced stories about trucking, while the Share the Road highway safety program teaches young drivers safety tips and shows students a truck driver’s perspective from the cab of a truck. ATA’s Heroes program encourages all to sign-up for a career in trucking. National Truck Driver Appreciation Week gives our industry an opportunity to come together in support of the nation’s truck drivers and the National Truck Driving Championships give us a chance to celebrate the achievements of our drivers. This year our technicians will be honored during National Technician Appreciation Week.

The industry wide image movement, Trucking Moves America Forward, is uniting the industry to heighten trucking’s visibility, economic necessity and vibrancy, as well as build pride among the industry’s 7.7 million workers, including the 3.5 million professional truck drivers. Research shows that TMAF is generating positive results and that when members of the general public have a friend in the trucking industry, they’re more likely to appreciate the hard work truck drivers and trucking professionals do each day.

In 2020, the world was taken by surprise with the uprising of the COVID-19 pandemic. Countries shut down, turmoil and fear spread across the US, and yet, our drivers bravely continue moving America. Leaders, policymakers, national news outlets, and the public, are taking notice and pushing our industry to the forefront. There has never been a better time for America to notice, we are here for you, day and night, 365 days a year, on good days and bad, to deliver America’s goods. Our truck drivers are showing pure heroism on the front lines, working hard to show the country what our industry is really about.

So, how are you bringing new friends to the industry?

The Mike Russell Trucking Image Award celebrates companies, organizations and individuals who creatively generate positive awareness of the trucking industry. Without the support of these leaders, the benefits of an improved image of the trucking industry would not be possible.
